Project Description:

This project is organizing a sustainability art exhibit titled Engineering a Greener Future that will be featured in the main gallery area of the Siebel Center for Design during the Fall 2022 semester.

The project aims to put a spotlight on university-led sustainability initiatives (such as the integrated photovoltaic (BIPV) panels of Sidney Lu, geothermal system at CIF, Solar Farm 2.0 by Illinois Climate Action Plan, Illinois Solar Decathlon, and countless more) via the perspective of Illinois student artists and designers.

The goal is to inspire other students to participate in sustainable choices and actions and empower environmentally conscious student thinkers by letting them know that they are not alone in their fight against climate change; the Power of I has their back.

The team has partnered with a variety of departmental researchers and RSOs (some of our current sponsors include MechE, CEE, Illini Solar Decathlon, Illini Solar Car, CABBI, IBRL, IRAI, and many more) to learn more about their projects and are currently interviewing artists and designers (~30 applicants as of 3/4/2022, our application submission deadline) who will help design and create the mural. The student artists will engage and coordinate with the sponsors to design artworks for the mural.
